School Principals Will Be Closer To The Classroom

By Susan Rand

A shift in their responsibilities will bring Andover's seven public school principals closer to classroom learning this fall.

A move by the School Committee that abolished the positions of program advisors this April put the onus of monitoring specific subject areas on the principals in each of the town's eight schools. This style of administration will be a change for building heads at the high school, both West and Doherty Junior Highs, and at the four elementary schools, Bancroft, Sanborn, South and West. The only public school that won't experience a change is the Early Childhood Center for kindergarten and readiness classes at the Shawsheen School which will open for the first time this fall.

As THE TOWNSMAN talked to school principals and administrators about the changes some of the administrators said the lines of authority would be more clear this fall without the program advisors, who were classified as administrators but were on a level below the principals. As school Superintendent Kenneth R. Seifert explained, it may be easier for principals to take orders from assistant superintendents, the principals' direct supervisors, on curriculum matters, than it was to do what the program advisors suggested. School Committee Chairman Donald W. Robb agreed, saying at times the status of program advisors was "confusing."

The principals will report to the two new assistant superintendents, one will monitor elementary affairs while the other oversees the secondary schools. Lois T. Haslam was appointed to the elementary post last month. But the secondary position is vacant and school administrators have begun a second search for a candidate, after their first effort yielded only one qualified person for the final interview stage.

Calling this year an "opportunity for the principals to be closer to the students," Haslam told THE TOWNSMAN that the principals would be taking a more active role in the evaluation of the academic programs in their schools.

To make that easier some duties, not directly related to academics, such as custodial oversight, have been assigned to other departments within the system, said Seifert.

Seifert said there is "mixed" emotion over the new responsibilities assigned to the principals. Some want to be much more involved in the instruction of students, he said, while others are wondering if they will be able to handle the new work.

And while many admitted the job had significantly changed, three principals agreed that their jobs will not be more difficult, just different. Andover High School Principal Mary Athey Jennings said it would be "a new ball game," come September adding that she was looking forward to the challenge as work with curriculum is her "first love."

William Hart, principal at West Junior High, said he felt competent enough to handle the changes in his position. The quality of any school is determined by the principal, he said, and to move towards classroom instruction will be a welcome change.

"That's where we belong," said Hart. "But in one way or another we have been drawn away from the classrooms. The kids and the curriculum are at the heart of a school."

The school principals have always been the coordinators of their buildings but they will have to be even more aware of what goes on in their buildings while monitoring programs, said West Elementary Principal Jack Coyle.

Coyle added that his job would be more time consuming because he has always had more people to work with. "But that may not be a bad idea because it will give us more information," he said.

Principals Richard McGrail of Doherty Junior High, Joseph Normandy of South and Eugene Frulla of Sanborn were on vacation this week and couldn't be reached for comment. In addition, there is a vacancy the School Committee is working to fill at the Bancroft School, created when then-principal Haslam was appointed assistant superintendent for elementary education.

The program advisor positions abolished this April coordinated learning in the areas of language arts, foreign languages, math, occupational education, social studies and science.

Essex Street Shopping Center A Possibility

Charles and Barbara Richmond are trying to decide whether to construct a shopping center or two dozen apartments on land they own on Essex Street.

There are already apartments on the land at 68-84 Essex St. but Donald Richmond, who owns and runs Richmond Properties, explained that in order to make money on the site he needs to put 24 apartments on the land. His problem is that the land is now zoned part General Business and part Industrial G, something Richmond may try to change at a future Town Meeting.

The Richmonds tried in June for a special permit and variance from the Zoning Board of Appeals to allow them to put the rental units on Essex Street but their request was turned down by the board. They needed the special permit to build a residential building on the General Business land and the variance to put apartments on Industrial G land.

Attends Summer Institute

David Wilkinson

David Wilkinson, a teacher of physics at Andover High School, recently completed the two-week Summer Institute in Physics and Astronomy at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

The institute hosted 19 high school physics teachers from across the state who all had backgrounds in sciences other than physics.

This is a condition that is typical of many of today's high schools because there is a shortage of physics-trained teachers regionally and nationally, according to Leroy Cook, institute director and head of the UMass/Amherst physics and astronomy department. Because more and more qualified people are shunning high school classrooms for industry and research jobs the shortage has been termed a crisis, Cook said.

The summer physics institute, financed entirely by UMass, stressed the laboratory side of physics, using the university's teaching and research laboratories.

"The overall idea is to involve the high school teachers totally in physics, to give them a lot of ideas that they can transfer to the classroom and to excite them so they can excite their students and have a real impact on the level of education in physics in the state," Cook said.

Wilkinson, an Andover resident, received his B.S. in geology from Bates College and his M.Ed. from Bridgewater.

Candidate Meets With Seniors

On Monday, Aug. 6, Democratic candidate for the Fifth Congressional District seat in the U.S. Congress Chet Atkins spoke to more than 50 of Andover's senior citizens at the new Stowe Court Community Room.

Atkins discussed such concerns as President Reagan's proposed cuts in social security, health care and housing which directly affect senior citizens.

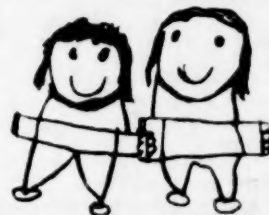

Andover residents will have an opportunity to dispose safely of household hazardous waste on Saturday, Sept. 22, designated by the Board of Health as Hazardous Waste Clean-up Day. Hours of intake will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the West Junior High School parking lot. Up to two gallons liquid or two pounds solid will be accepted free of charge from each household. Over the limit, a user fee of $2 per gallon or pound will probably be charged.

This collection will be Andover's second effort to offer its residents an easy and safe way to clear out chemicals that shouldn't be put out for the weekly trash pickup. With improper disposal, such as municipal landfilling, certain substances such as pesticides, cleaning fluids, lead paint, caustics and flammables can contaminate soil and water or cause fires or toxic fumes.

The first Hazardous Waste Cleanup Day held in May 1983, following Lexington's successful collection the previous fall, generated much interest around the state. Inquiries have been coming in ever since. Many Andover residents who missed the 1983 cleanup requested that it be an annual event.

Recycling Industries of Braintree will again provide secure containers and packing materials, trucking service and the supervision of an experienced chemist. A flyer with more detailed information will be available soon at Town Hall, Memorial Hall Library and various stores around Andover.

Singers' Workshop Holds Andover Summer Session

Singers' Workshop, summer home and training ground for the Treble Chorus of New England, opened its eighth week-long summer session with a record 74 singers, ages 7-16, from the towns of Andover, Reading, North Reading, Stoneham, North Andover, Winchester, Wilmington, Burlington, Lynnfield, Tewksbury, Methuen and West Peabody.

Based at South Church, Andover, for the first time, the workshop specializes in training gifted children in classical music.

Headed by its founder and artistic director, Marie Stultz of North Reading, the week-long sessions include instruction in music theory, dictation, solfege, music appreciation, voice class and small ensembles. The choir is known for singing very difficult music of all music periods in five languages.

This year's staff includes assistant music director Karin Kohl of Andover, in her fifth year at the workshop; Laurence Berry, music director of Epiphany Church, Winchester; Janet Trefry, music educator in the Gloucester public schools; Richard Stultz, Treble Chorus accompanist and assistant music director since its beginning in 1975; and Workshop Administrator Judy Forgione of Burlington, who has volunteered for seven years in this capacity.

The choir has received national acclaim this year with the American premiere of Paul Earl's opera, "Icarus," at MIT's Kresge Auditorium and has just been the recipient of a Merit Aid award of $4,700 from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities. This year's workshop was subsidized in part by grants from both the Andover Arts Lottery and the North Reading Arts Council.

The workshop will culminate with a concert on Saturday, Aug. 18, at 7:30 p.m. at South Church. Music to be included on the program includes the works of Purcell, Brahms, Schubert, Morley, Hassler, Faure, Britten and staged excerpts from Gilbert and Sullivan. This concert is open to the public.

Honored

Suzanne Marie Flavia Tanner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Tanner, 10 Charlotte Drive, Andover, has been awarded a Certificate of Merit in recognition of academic achievement of high distinction during the 1983-84 year from Matina S. Horner, president of Radcliffe College.

Tech School Celebrates Final Payment

"We're halfway home!"

With those words Superintendent-Director Louis E. Gleason made final payment on the original building of the Greater Lawrence Technical School at a luncheon held last Wednesday in the school's Four Winds Coffee Shop.

Guests included Regional School Committee members John Ford and Joseph Sweeney of Lawrence and Danile Dodson of Methuen; Fred S. Tarbox, former district school committee chairman from Andover, and James A. Booth, superintendent-director of the school from 1964 to 1975. Also, Joseph Skop of Methuen and John Sullivan of Andover, former school planning committee members, Jack Ryan and Donna Cotter, municipal finance officers for Shawmut National Bank, Edward Kopec, business manager of Greater Lawrence Technical School, and Dorothy Lawlor, school senior bookkeeper.

During the luncheon, the school's rapid growth from 327 students in 1965 to approximately 1,800 in 1984 was noted. Dodson mentioned that more than 5,700 students have graduated from Greater Lawrence Tech., not including night school programs. Sweeney added, "We fully expect to be able to serve an ever-expanding local job market in the years to come."

Tarbox noted that the original bond issue was funded in 1964 at the rate of 3.2 percent. The final payment on the school's new building, completed in 1972, will be made in 1990. Tarbox termed the news that 20 former technical school graduates are currently employed by the school "further proof of the school's commitment and productivity to the Greater Lawrence area."

New England Telephone is expanding and improving local telephone facilities in Andover.

Public Relations Manager Cynthia Austin said, "The new facilities will provide additional cable capacity and improved service to meet the present and future calling needs of telephone customers served by the Andover (475, 470) exchange."

As part of six different projects in Andover, NET workers have placed about two miles of new telephone cable along Central and Dascomb roads and are working on the installation of close to four miles of new cable on Lowell Street.

The company is placing three miles of cable on North Main and Salem Streets and in the Shawsheen Village area. About two miles of new cable, along with Subscriber Loop Carrier Systems (SLCS), are being placed on Boutwell Street.

SLCS are small electronic systems

LSB Obtains $2 Million For Student Loans

The Lawrence Savings Bank, Lawrence, will obtain up to $2 million for student loans it originates from the Student Loan Marketing Association (Sallie Mae) of Washington, D.C. Sallie Mae officials estimate that its commitment to Lawrence Savings Bank could facilitate origination approximately 800 individual student loans over the next three years.

Lawrence Savings Bank will obtain the funds by selling existing student loans it makes to Sallie Mae, the major financial intermediary for education credit and the nation's largest single source of funds for guaranteed student loans.

"We have provided nearly $3 million in student loans to Massachusetts residents under the Guaranteed Student Loan Program in the past 12 years," said Maureen McCarthy, assistant vice president of Lawrence Savings Bank. "By selling existing loans to Sallie Mae we can, in effect, recycle our funds and thus assure our ability to meet the financial needs of our student customers."

Guaranteed Student Loans are the predominant financing vehicle for students attending postsecondary educational institutions. Maximum annual loan amounts for undergraduate and graduate students are $2,500 and $5,000 a year, respectively. Loans are originated by private lenders and public agencies and are re-insured by the federal government. Students are required to begin repaying the loans on a monthly basis after they graduate or leave school.

By buying insured student loans and providing other financial services to financial and educational institutions, Sallie Mae replenishes local supplies of student credit. Last year the corporation provided $2.6 billion in funds and commitments for student loans nationwide. Sallie Mae, whose stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange, raises funds to provide these services by borrowing in the nation's capital markets.

In Mountains, Teens Learn A 'New Kind Of Unity'

By Susan Rand

The work that an old Indian woman put into weaving a small basket of black ash strips was symbolic of the friendships eight Andover teenagers cultivated with eight Northern Minnesota Indian teens on a camping trip in the Canadian Rockies.

"We learned that whatever differences we bring, by being together and working together we wove together a new kind of unity, something very special," said the Rev. James A. Diamond, as he introduced the student campers who helped him with the Sunday sermon at Christ Episcopal Church.

Rev. Diamond and eight young members of the Christ Church youth group traveled to northern Minnesota at the end of July to spend 17 days camping with a group of Indian teenagers, also Episcopalians, to learn about another other way of life — and about themselves. Just days after their return they gathered at the church, on Central Street, to tell the congregation of their journey.

The camping program, called New Horizons, is in part the creation of Rev. Diamond who served on the Episcopal Bishop of Minnesota's staff before coming to Andover in 1981. There he tried to interest Minnesota teenagers to visit the American Indians up north. He couldn't get a youth group excited about a camping exchange program until he was 1,500 miles from the reservations.

Making the trip to Minnesota with Rev. Diamond were high schoolers Christopher Wright, Julie Williams, Sarah Trickett, Gretchen Suchodolsky, Ed Schmidt, Allen Gable, Steve Francis and Jen Coe. Diamond said he nicknamed the camping contingent the "Minnechusetts Twenty," a combination of the two state names and the number of campers.

The teenagers stood at the front of the church Sunday and answered questions Rev. Diamond posed about their Minnesota trip. One by one they recited their answers, shyly at first, into a microphone as they passed it down the line from hand to hand. The shared sermon was later continued at a 45 minute question and answer session in the church hall at the coffee hour following the service. About 40 church-goers listened as the youngsters further explained their stay with their new friends.

One of the Christ Church campers, Sarah Trickett, who just finished her first year of high school, was the youngest member of the Andover delegation. She quietly stood on the edge of the group during the coffee hour and was recognized by Rev. Diamond who said he was impressed that Sarah "really held her own" with the older campers.

Sarah's father, George Trickett, told those at the coffee hour that Sarah had received a telephone call from one of the Minnesota campers. He wouldn't have thought twice about call from a local friend, said Trickett, but a call from so far after Sarah had just returned made her father realize that Sarah had made some close friends.

The friendships may not fade because the Andover youngsters have already invited their Minnesota friends to come to New England next summer. Preliminary plans for 1985 are in the works too. The Andover group has already set a date for a trip to Rhode Island to scout out a place at the shore where the group will be reunited. They have experienced the mountains of Minnesota together, now it's time to show their friends the ocean. All of the Andover youngsters have promised to attend next summer's ocean campout.

"I think you have met people who you can know for the rest of your lives if you want to," Diamond told his crew.

For the Minnesota youngsters, their time with the Andover teens was probably the first time "white" peers were really interested in them, said Diamond. In their schools the Indian students are discriminated against and school counselors tell them they are wasting space in the schools and should leave, said Diamond to the horror of those listening.

The Minnesota youngsters won't be prepared for what they will find in both Andover and Boston, said the minister, where life is so different than anything they experience. What will sustain them, he said, is that they are not coming just to visit Boston, but to visit friends.

When they left for Minnesota, on July 22, Diamond told the congregation that the now close-knit Andover campers hardly knew each other, in fact he planned it that way. The pastor explained to THE TOWNSMAN that the Andover kids were much more verbal and social than their Minnesota counterparts. If they traveled north, already good friends, it would be that much more difficult for the more reserved Minnesota youngsters to become friends with them, he said.

At times there were big differences in the two groups of youngsters, said Rev. Diamond, and other times, he said with a laugh, "we realized that teenagers are teenagers." Besides being Indian and Caucasian groups, Diamond said some of the differences in the Massachusetts and Minnesota teens were the result of their growing up in rural and urban areas.

While traveling in their van news came over the radio about buying trends in the stock market and one of the Indian teenagers asked what the stock market was and how it would effect his life. Yet, every morning, all the teenage campers had to wash their hair, boys and girls alike, Diamond told their parents on Sunday — even if it meant using an ice-cold glacial stream.

When Rev. Diamond asked the high schoolers to tell the congregation one important thing about the trip Julie Williams said the group was able to get over anything that came up. And Jen Coe elaborated on that at the coffee hour saying that after spending every minute of every day together people started to get on each other's nerves.

"We all sat down and talked about it," she said. "It helped to talk."

Sometimes, Diamond said with a smile, they ended up having one big pillow fight to ease tension.

And the Andover teenagers told the congregation about how impressed they were with the honesty and generous nature of their new friends.

"They had a deeper understanding of respect than we had," said Ed Schmidt. "And they weren't as superficial as we were," chimed in Sarah Trickett.

Rev. Diamond told the congregation that the Minnesota teens were very willing to share whatever they had, "if one of them had a dollar they all had a dollar," he said.

The minister told the parishioners that this youngest generation of American Indians will not be able to "make it" in life if they stay on their reservations. They are the first Indians their age who want to leave the reservations.

"They want to be just like these folks," he said gesturing to his young camping friends. "They want to be 'all-American.'"

At the campfire on their last night in Minnesota Rev. Diamond told the youngsters to consider whether they would have talked to one another if they had passed on the street, or whether they would have just walked quickly by each other. His remark prompted Jen Coe to tell those gathered that the campers learned that they had to give all people a chance because some situations aren't as they first look to be, she said.

"Those of us here today must make that translation to Lawrence," the minister said at the Sunday morning service. "If ever there was a time to realize our sameness and share our love it is now."

It was the grandmother of one of the Indian boys who made the ash basket, which held the communion bread for the campers, that the minister held as he talked Sunday morning. Rev. Diamond said he couldn't get the shy youngster to talk about his grandmother and her ancient customs. But the old woman told the minister that it was her young grandson who pounded the ash with the butt end of an ax until the bark came off and the ash was thin and pliable enough for his grandmother to weave.

A Job With A View

When the outside of a church that towers over the town has to be painted, not an inch of that structure is missed. So be the case with the South Church on Central Street. This 300 year-old church stands 180 feet, from the first step to the weather vane and is being blessed with a new coat of paint over the summer. Naturally, you do not call your typical house painter to take on this task and you don't call them painters; they are known as Steeple Jacks. A person who is a steeple jack comes equipped with ladders, pulleys, plenty of rope and nerve. They are supported high above the ground with a wooden board for a seat and a strong rope and pulley that allows them to raise or lower themselves into position. To a person on the ground, a steeple jack is a very brave and daring worker but to the steeple jack, he or she is a worker that has a job with a view. Photos left to right: Shawn Danahy of Methuen and Joe Croteau of Lawrence, steeple jacks for Jennings' Steeple Jacks and Riggers Painting Company work on the South Church Steeple; An angle view of the church and worker is framed by surrounding trees.

Runner Honored

An hour-long special program, "New Hampshire Honors Gary Aramini," will be televised August 25 on WNDS, Channel 50 at 1 p.m. The special is part of a state-wide fundraising effort to fight cancer and to support the herculean efforts of New Hampshire native Gary Aramini's cross country run to raise funds.

It is a story about a shy, 21-year-old man from Chester, N.H., who dropped out of Plymouth State College in order to run across the country in an attempt to raise $100,000 for cancer research.

Aramini's decision to make the run came about last year after the death of his close friend, Bill Clay, from cancer.

Activities At The Playgrounds

Tiny Tot And Preschool

The Tiny Tots and Preschool children at Bancroft had a busy seventh week. Lindsey Pearson's favorite activity was finger painting with chocolate and vanilla pudding. Ron Horovitz, Michael Jones and Rosaria Demember agreed with Lindsey on her favorite activity. On Thursday the children brought in their favorite records. Michael Jackson's Thriller album and the Sesame Street album tied for first place. Mark Zammuto, Jennifer Valentine and Leslie Babek enjoyed dancing to Michael Jackson's "Pretty Young Thing."

All the preschoolers wore their p.j.s to playground on Wednesday and made pancakes for breakfast. They each received super cooks awards. Korrin Mitchell and Chris Martin especially enjoyed the pancakes. They each ate at least five. Bunny Day was Thursday. Emily Jonas brought in a special stuffed animal friend, not a bunny but a panda bear. Emily and her panda, along with all the other children and their bunnies, watched a film strip called "Mr. Rabbit and the Lady Present."

All Day

The seventh week of the All Day playground was another awesome adventure. Monday a lot of new kids joined the playground, including Tammy Saggese, Ricky Saggese, Amy Kaufman, Charles Calvi, Julianne Grassis and Maura Grassis. Charcoal pictures were the day's crafts with Megan Kelley and Maureen Mullen dedicating their pictures to the staff. Tuesday most of the playground ventured to Crane's Beach for the annual sand sculpture contest. Along with the rest of the playgrounds a first-place winning birthday party scene was built. Christine Mullen, Shannon Kelley, David Halleran, Evan Duff, Tasha Roberts, Jen Buck and Stephanie Buck were some of the participants. Special thanks to Kate Normandy for her enthusiasm and leadership. On Wednesday, Jonah Corneau, Brenda Brightman, Aron Johnson, Charles Clavi and Adam Lafond especially enjoyed themselves on a hike to the river for a picnic lunch. Stained glass windows was the art project for the day with Sarah Halleran, Amy Kaufman, Gwendy Duff and David Halleran creating some masterpieces. Thursday was another busy day with four square, prison dodgeball, medic and circle tag filling the morning hours. After lunch the whole playground enjoyed a delectable, giant fruit salad made with contributions from all the playgrounders. Quiet time was spent making push pin people and egg carton creatures.

Bancroft

Monday, Jason McCue, Ted Ratyns, Todd and Paul Allard broke to their own choreographed routine. Amy Daniels was back after being at camp for two weeks. Wooden creations were made with scraps of lumber. Petie Daniels made an excellent birdman. There was a sand-sculpture contest at Crane's Beach on Tuesday. The Bancroft architects sculpted the ice cream cone that was part of the birthday celebration. Matt Hosmer, Audrey and Morgan Collins, Matt Trede, Robin Ratyna and Amy Rolfs lent their talents to the creations. Shahram almost got caught in the thunderstorm. Thanks to Bill, who carried him at least a mile to the bus, not a speck of water wet Shahram. There was McDonald's food from the local Mickey D's on Wednesday. Tempers were flaming on Thursday to the annoyance of all. What started to be a pretty good day ended in disaster. Matt Daniels, Paul Allard and Matt Hosmer had a taste of what it's like being a councilor when they traded places with Jenn, Sharon and Bill.

Doherty

This week at Doherty was a blast, the only regret was the time flew right past. On Monday the time was right for Brigham's ice cream. All the gang went and had plenty to eat. Tuesday came with a trip to Crane's Beach for some fun and a sand castle contest. There was McDonald's on Wednesday. With Thursday came the topic of nature for a day with a hike to the bird sanctuary at P.A.

Sanborn

Sanborn had an awesome week. Monday the kids showed their artistic ability by building popsicle stick creations. The team of Brad Cronin triumphed in capture the flag. Of course, Tuesday was the high point. Ten Sanborn kids graced Crane's Beach where Chris and Brian Workman and Ryan Walsh showed Mickey O'Day and Candy Ellis how great the water really was. Winning the sand castle contest as the best: lucky Sanborn was there to give it finesse. Wednesday was humid and slow but some of the best paper puppets were made. Thursday was pajama day and there was cartoons to watch and donuts to eat. Games such as Old Lady Witch, which Colleen Reid won, and Shipwreck, which Tom Pecoraro and Rob Lewis were awesome in, were played. Friday there was more fun in the sun at Pomp's Pond.

South

The seventh week began by creating animals and figures out of sponges. Carolyn Casdia made a turtle while Nick Kollavics created an army tank. Afterward everyone played Red Rover and street hockey. Tuesday was the sand castle building contest at Crane's Beach. The larger-than-life birthday party, complete with presents, popsicles, ice cream cone, jelly beans and a cake won first place. Anne Murnane and Chris Cashman were two of the best sand artists. Michelle Doucette, Amy Smith and Nicole Gorton had a great time dunking the boys in the water. Wednesday's highlights included the creation of leather purses, key chains and pen holders. Vanessa and Lyra Dunaway made purses to hold their ice cream money just in time for a walk to Scoops Ice Cream Shop. Everyone went punk on Thursday. Jenny and Melissa Romig and Shannon Lee dressed the punkiest of all. Mokoto Movi and many others made blue and yellow god's eyes. Friday was also exciting. Many took a hike to Poms Pond to go swimming. Others stayed at South for a cookout and fun and games.

Ballardvale

Week seven at Ballardvale began with a bang and never slowed down. The craft of the day on Monday was friendship pins. Angela Guiliani and Vanessa Blank proved they had a lot of friends. Andover won the sand castle building contest on Tuesday at Crane's Beach. Wednesday was dominated by the Hayes family. Lisa Hayes made some stunning macaroni jewelry and Ressie Hayes showed great speed and quickness in the games of dog catcher and shipwreck.

West Elementary

The fun-filled week at West Elementary playground started out with the exciting creation of marshmallow men, many created by Jenny Amirto, Heather Pierog and Steve Pano and led by the new counselor Cori Schmidt. Tuesday Craig Silva (West's supervisor) took a group of children to Crane's Beach where they built a cake out of sand for the sand castle contest. Volunteer Ann Marie Charland, Rich and Scott Marique, counselors Kim Wilkins, David Charland, PJ and Chris Filosi and Amy Cohen were a few of the many who helped make the masterpiece. For 2½ hours they struggled to create perfection and then the judges came around and awarded it first place. Wednesday there was a long, intense game of dead dog with famous dead dog players Angela and Jeremy Roux, Ian Begg and Ed Campbell. Participating in making mo-bills out of tissue paper and toothpicks were Rebecca and Ellen Keaney, Amy Baker and Meghan McKee. Thursday was dress-up day which included many exciting costumes from Jennifer Galvin's lady bug to Heather Pierog as a gypsy. A fun-filled game of capture the paper bag included Mike Kelly, Andrew Lionson, Randy Stanco and Eric Begg.

Craig Silva led a bike ride with volunteer Matt Abernathy, Todd Abernathy, Joey Sirois and Ryan Abernathy to Sanborn School. On Friday Chad Murphy, Mike Kelly, Andy Cohen and Megan Selvitelli starred in a game of kickball. A few who participated in doing gimp with the good old box stitch were Jason Long and Debbie Green.

School Administrators Get Bonus For Extra Work

Five Andover public school administrators received a surprise bonus of $750 each for extra work they took on last year when former assistant superintendent Charles Mitsakos left the system in December.

After some discussion about awarding money for jobs well done — after they had specified that those volunteering for the positions weren't getting paid — the School Committee unanimously voted at their meeting last week to award Lois Haslam, Richard McGrail, John Hughes, Iora Alexander and Ken Pellerin a "stipend," to be drawn from the remaining $20,000 of Mitsakos' unpaid salary from the school's coffers.

Mitsakos' departure brought about an administrative version of musical chairs in the schools as a number of employees were appointed to temporary, or acting, positions for the remainder of last year.

One of those administrators, Eugene Frulla took on additional duties but was not awarded for them because, as committee Chairman Donald W. Robb explained to THE TOWNSMAN, Frulla had at one time been a principal for two years at the Doherty Junior High School replacing Richard McGrail who was working on the town's school building program. When McGrail resumed his post at Doherty, Frulla became a half-time assistant principal at the West Elementary school and half-time manager of the computer student services system-wide. Because his salary was raised when he became a principal and not reduced when he no longer held the post he was not given the $750 award.

School Committee member Richard W. Neal told the committee he was uncomfortable with the awards because they were not mentioned when the acting positions were created last winter, although Neal did later vote to give the five administrators the stipends.

Touching off the vacancies in the schools, Lois Haslam and Richard McGrail were appointed acting assistant superintendents to replace Mitsakos. Haslam was in charge of elementary education, a post she has recently been appointed to permanently, while McGrail was the assistant in charge of secondary affairs. That position is now being advertised for in a second round search for a permanent replacement.

Haslam left her job as principal at the Bancroft Elementary school to become acting superintendent and was replaced by Frulla who was acting Bancroft principal for the rest of the year. When he assumed that position, Frulla left an opening as assistant principal at West Elementary school which was filled for the remainder of the year by Iora Alexander, a teacher at West who had been the assistant principal at West at one time.

The Bancroft post is now vacant and applications for the job are due in by next Wednesday, Aug. 15. This September Frulla will take over as principal at the Sanborn Elementary school for Isabelle Dobie, who retired from that position this spring.

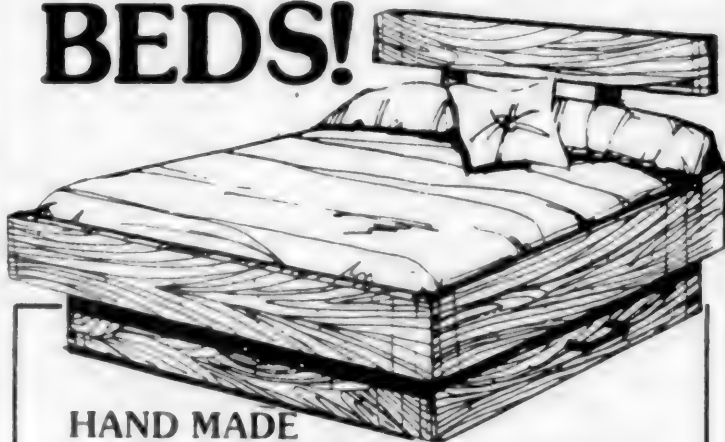

McGrail left an opening at Doherty Junior High when he accepted the acting superintendent job. He was replaced in an acting capacity by John Hughes who was the assistant principal at Doherty. Ken Pellerin, a business education teacher at Doherty, filled the assistant principal gap that Hughes left for the remainder of last year.

Brisk Beginning For Center's '84-'85 Season

Ticket orders are coming in at a brisk pace for the 1984-85 season of the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, located at Andover High School.

The five-color, 1984-85 season brochure, announcing a spectacular 15-show season, was direct mailed to every household in Andover last week.

"The response has been overwhelming," said Glen A. Gulezian, managing director, "and our orders for season subscriptions are nearly double what they were last season."

He noted that the 15-show Diamond Series, with a 20 percent discount from regular box office prices, has been the most attractive package to ticket purchasers. The brochure also includes an eight-show Emerald Series and a special five-show, classical Ruby Series.

Children and students are reminded that all shows are reduced with purchases under the youth Rainbow Series.

Individual ticket orders should be sent in as soon as possible, since these will be filled on a priority basis before tickets are put on public sale.

Ray Charles, the Raelettes and the Ray Charles Orchestra will open the season September 23 with two shows, at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m.,

Tickets are on sale at the Collins Center Box Office Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Andover Bank, Main Street, Andover, and Main Street, North Andover; and "Just For You," 36 Main St., Andover.

The deadline for series subscriptions is Friday, Sept. 7. For further information, call the box office or write: P.O. Box 3039, Shawsheen Station, Andover.

Forum Will Negotiate Social Service Funding

An innovative public-private negotiation forum is now underway in Massachusetts to decide how combined state and donated social service funding will be spent. Dr. Lawrence E. Susskind, executive director of Harvard Law School's Program on Negotiation, has been named as lead mediator for the forum, called the Partnership forum for children and Family Services.

Dr. Susskind will mediate formal negotiating and planning sessions over the next few months. Invited to the sessions are potential contributors of funding, potential providers of services, concerned citizens and advocates and representatives from the Massachusetts Department of Social Services. The funds in question are from the Public/Private Partnership Program through which funds donated by businesses, foundations, United Ways and local governments are matched on a three-to-one basis by the department. For the current Fiscal Year, these funds total about 18 million dollars. Forum participants will discuss priorities for social service spending and will develop an allocation plan for partnership funds for Fiscal Year 1986.

Dr. Susskind is a professor of Urban Studies and Planning at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was director of MIT's recent IMPACT 2½ project, which studied the effect of Proposition 2½ on local revenues, spending and services. He has served as mediator in several complex public disputes, has worked as a consultant to a variety of federal, state and local agencies and is the author of more than 30 research projects, consulting studies and scholarly articles. He is completing a manuscript called "Mediated Negotiation in the Public Sector."

Andover Police Respond During Lawrence Riots

The streets of Lawrence have been quiet this week, but Andover police were among the local law enforcement officers who responded to calls for help from Lawrence police during two violent nights in the neighboring city last week.

Four officers from the Andover Police Department were sent to Lawrence last Wednesday and Thursday nights, along with three specially-trained Andover officers who belong to the Northeast Municipal Law Enforcement Council (N.E.M.L.E.C.) Tactical Police Force. The tactical force members returned to the city Friday night as well.

Lawrence police called for assistance from a number of surrounding towns, including Andover, North Andover, Methuen, North Reading, Woburn, Billerica and Salem, N.H., when street-fighting and fires erupted in the Oxford and Haverhill Street area, near Tower Hill, on Wednesday and again on Thursday night. State police from the Andover barracks were also called to the scene.

According to Andover Police Chief James Johnson, Lawrence police first called his department for assistance at 10:58 p.m. Wednesday, when four Andover officers were sent to the scene: Sgt. George Miller and Officers Ronald Haggerty, William Canane and John Pathiakis.

At 11:25 Wednesday night, the N.E.M.L.E.C. tactical force was called in, Johnson said. Nineteen local communities are represented on the special force, the chief explained, with each committing ten percent of its personnel to the force.

Andover has five members on the tactical unit, but only three were available last week (one member was out with an injury and there is one vacancy): Sgt. Arthur Ricci, and Officers Donald Patullo and William MacKenzie.

The Andover police remained in Lawrence until 6:30 Thursday morning, Johnson said. They were called back to the city at 9:51 Thursday night, when violence broke out again, and remained there until 4 a.m. Friday.

No calls for assistance came in Friday night, Johnson said, but the tactical force stayed in Lawrence from 8 p.m. until 12:30 a.m.

With a dawn-to-dusk curfew enforced in the troubled area Friday through Sunday nights, the neighborhood has remained quiet since last Thursday night. The curfew was lifted Monday night without incident.

Chief Johnson said Andover and all of Lawrence's neighboring communities "were there to help" Lawrence police last week and were "very, very supportive" of the city. "The need is there," he explained. "All we're doing is helping out another community."

Last week's rioting reflects not just on Lawrence, he added, but on the entire Merrimack Valley area. "It's a real concern," the chief said. "It could happen anywhere, for any reason. It could very well happen in Andover or North Andover."

The two nights of violence and destruction, attributed to racial tension in the Oxford Street neighborhood, brought Lawrence nationwide attention last week. Lawrence police said the trouble began around 8 p.m. Wednesday, touched off by a long-running feud between two groups of neighbors.

Buildings were firebombed, including Pettoruto's Package Store at 450 Haverhill St., which was gutted by fire (and then looted), along with an apartment above the store. Other fires broke out along Oxford Street as well.

With as many as 300 people involved, 12 people were injured and six arrested during Wednesday's disturbance, which police did not quell until about 1 a.m. Lawrence police and firefighters were driven back from the area by residents throwing stones for at least two hours before assistance arrived.

About 80 policemen outfitted in riot gear marched into the neighborhood around 1 a.m. Wednesday, including about 40 from the tactical force and about 35 state troopers. They swept

Story Telling Hour

The last Memorial Hall Library Story Telling Hour for the summer held the attention of its audience, ranging in the age of three- to five-year-olds. Twenty children made themselves cozy on the floor as story after story was read to them by the Children's Librarian, Bridget Bennett. The Fall Story Hour will begin in October and will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, ten a.m. and Thursday afternoon at 1:30. Photos clockwise upper left: Bobby Kim, four, of Jefferson Lane enjoys a snack during the hour; Bridget Bennett shows the pictures in the book; Five-year-old Joey Murphy of Foster Circle gives his attention; Two-year-old Madeline Campbell of Baily Road listens carefully; Natalie Fertitta, two, of Brechin Terrace relaxes on the floor.

Musgrove Sold For Double Assessed Value

The new owners of the Musgrove building and three other properties in town paid more than double their assessed value when they agreed to buy them for a total of $3.3 million from North Andover developer Robert E. Webster.

Three senior partners of the Liberty Group, a Danvers-based financial planning company, will own the Regency Apartment complexes, on Post Office Avenue and on Andover Street, and three wooden buildings housing retail businesses on Post Office Avenue and be part owners of the Musgrove building.

Jeff Rosen, of Liberty, told THE TOWNSMAN that he and partners Christopher Hatch and Thomas Riquier will buy the three properties for $1.3 million and will be the general partners in a limited partnership that will own the Musgrove building, bought for $2 million.

Andover assessment records value the four pieces of real estate at a total of just over $1.5 million.

Liberty has signed a purchase and sale agreement with Webster, and after a routine title search of the property and other closing arrangements are taken care of the Danvers men will take ownership of the Andover buildings.

Rosen explained that the Musgrove building will be owned by he and his partners who will be general partners in the deal, along with 34 other limited partners, customers of Liberty, whom he declined to name.

There are no immediate changes planned for the property, said Rosen, adding that after Webster moves his Channel Building Company out of the top floor of the 89-year-old Musgrove building Liberty will move in. Rosen said Liberty would give Webster up to a year to relocate.

"We plan to keep things pretty much the same," said Rosen. "We are doing this as an investment and we aren't interested in changing everything. We think this is a wonderful piece of property."

Selectmen Cancel Fall Meeting, But Look Toward Fall '85

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Andover voters planning to attend the next town meeting can mark their calendars for the first Monday in April, 1985, because there will be no special town meeting this fall, as the selectmen had decided last month.

The board Monday night voted three-one to change their minds about a fall town meeting, with Gerald Silverman opposed and William Dalton absent. Dalton had suggested the fall meeting during the selectmen's July 16 meeting.

Board members agreed, however, that a special town meeting may very well be held in the fall of 1985, as they talked about scheduling variations to help solve the problem of long warrants that tax voters' patience — and stamina — during annual meetings.

The selectmen reconsidered their plans for a fall meeting after Planning Board Chairman Margaret Bradshaw appeared before them Monday night to explain that the planners were "not in great support" of a fall town meeting.

Bradshaw said her board is now concentrating on three major topics, with an eye toward the 1985 spring meeting: housing, downtown parking and possible expansion of the central business district, and revision of the planning board's subdivision rules and regulations.

The planners hope to come to the annual meeting with proposed revisions to the town's zoning bylaw, the chairman said, and they fear that stopping to prepare for a fall meeting would disrupt their current efforts.

Selectmen Charles Wesson and Norma Gammon agreed with Bradshaw's stand. Wesson said the selectmen had hoped a fall meeting would lighten the planners' load in the spring, but added, "My feeling is I'd rather have our ducks in a row" next spring than hold an extra meeting this fall.

Gammon agreed that the selectmen

"should be responsive to the boards" and "make sure we go into town meeting with a lot of good study."

Gerald Silverman moved to table the vote on a fall meeting, explaining that he did not want to "knock out any possibility if there was a need." His motion was not seconded; Gammon pointed out that public hearings for a fall meeting would have to start within the next few weeks.

(According to Town Clerk Elden Salter, a warrant for the November meeting would have opened Aug. 20 and closed Aug. 24 to allow time for public hearings before the planning board.)

Chairman Donn Byrne said he would have liked to schedule a special meeting this fall, but was willing to "bow to" the planning board's wishes — this year. Next year, he said, "the possibility of two town meetings is a lot better than it was this year."

Wesson said he would rather not schedule fall town meetings as a matter of course, but only when they are necessary, noting that each meeting costs the town an estimated $5,000 to $6,000.

Town Moderator James Doherty, attending Monday's meeting, asked the board to "think seriously" about splitting the annual meetings into two warrants: one of no more than 35 articles, including the town/school budget and "boilerplate" articles, and a second for zoning proposals. The second meeting could be held a week or two after the first, he suggested.

Wesson added that when town meeting sessions last longer than two nights, Monday and Tuesday, they might be continued to the following Monday, rather than going on to Wednesday night.

Whatever else may happen next year, the town manager noted that the warrant for 1985's spring town meeting — definitely scheduled for the first Monday in April — will open in late December, and close in early January.

Wetlands Worry Subdivision Neighbors

By Susan Rand

Two-dozen neighbors and abutters of Andover's newest subdivision told the owner of the land and a construction company representative their fears about four wet areas bordering the 14.4 acre site at Tuesday night's Planning Board meeting.

Although it was the first time the five-member board discussed Hawk Ridge and saw Andover attorney John McGarry's site plan for the development the planners were bombarded with questions ranging from where the septic systems would be placed on the lots to whether the spraying of pesticides on gardens in the proposed subdivision could be outlawed.

Planning Chairman Margaret Bradshaw tried to ease the fears of the neighbors telling them the plan would be discussed before a number of other town boards before homes go up on the eight lots planned for the parcel. She directed many of the neighbors and their questions to other town boards for more specific answers, many of which were out of the purview of the Planning Board.

The one-hour discussion on Hawk Ridge started one half hour late, at 8:30 p.m., after the engineer on the project, from Merrimack Engineering, failed to show up to discuss the plans. The questions from the board and audience were answered by contractor David Zaloga, from Coolidge Construction, and McGarry. But their answers could not supply technical information about how the site will be developed.

Located in a Single Residence C (SRC) area, Hawk Ridge will have eight house lots, each of which must be at least one acre according to SRC zoning. The site is bounded at one end by Rattlesnake Hill Road, where the cul-de-sac will turn off into the property, and at the other end by the rear of lots off Sleepy Hollow Lane. Old County Road is the eastern boundary of the property.

Perhaps the largest wet areas on or around the proposed subdivision is a wetland on what is designated as lot 8, the largest lot in the project. It is located at the top of the parcel, abutting Rattlesnake Hill Road. Water from this wet area eventually drains into Foster's Pond, explained town planner Nancy Jeton. Some residents attending the Tuesday meeting said they worried water running off McGarry's land and into the pond may effect the quality of the water.

Another water problem, which Jeton said the town is planning to remedy this summer or early fall, is the pooling of water on Rattlesnake Hill Road that freezes and ices the road in the winter. A storm drain around Sleepy Hollow Lane is another consideration for the board because water from the drain ends up on McGarry's land.

The final water problem is an increase of runoff water in the area that Jeton said was the result of George Chongris' Roulston Circle development. Because the developers of Hawk Ridge will be working in and near wet areas they must appear before the Andover Conservation Commission for a set of working conditions they must follow when working around wetlands.

James Brown, 3 Glenwood Road, told the planners that most of the time the

Valle's Sold To Canadian Chain

Valle's Steak House on River Road will soon be sold to the owners of a Canadian restaurant chain, and will eventually become Le Bifteque — "la plus grande maison de bifteck en ville (the biggest steakhouse in town)".

The selectmen Monday night unanimously approved a transfer of the restaurant's all-alcoholic beverage license from Valle's to SGS Restaurants, Inc. The board also granted SGS a common victualler's license for the restaurant.

Atty. James Whalen, representing the new owners, told the board SGS is composed of three principals who have operated a "very high-quality, very successful" chain of restaurants in Canada since 1969, including three restaurants called The Hayloft. The corporation president is Michael Seltzer, who attended Monday night's meeting.

About three years ago, Whalen said, the corporation opened a restaurant in Montreal patterned after The Hilltop of Saugus, and called it Le Bifteque. They plan to remodel Valle's into that restaurant, Whalen said. The restaurant name will not be changed immediately, he added.

The transfer of ownership should be complete within the next several months, he said. The new owners plan to make only "cosmetic changes" to the interior of the restaurant, such as new rugs and tables, the attorney said, while "the building itself would remain as it is." No additions are planned, Whalen said.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told the board he had waited for a number of

A BIG Birthday Party!

For 150 kids and 14 playground counselors, winning the 15th annual Sandcastle contest, sponsored by the Ipswich Recreation Dept. at Crane's Beach, was one big piece of cake. All the Andover D.C.S. playgrounds formed one team and competed against ten other towns for the first place trophy with the theme "A Birthday Party". The ingredients for this giant party included a birthday cake 20 feet in diameter, a 15 foot ice cream cone, a fork four feet in length and several other large items. Colored powdered paints were added, giving these realistic items a surrealistic form. The only thing missing from enjoying all the sandcastles was a plane ride up and down the shore of Crane's beach. Photos clockwise upper left: Aron Johnson, 11, of Hyatt Ave. and Jared Greenberg, 12, of Old Berry Road work on one of the creations; Playground counselors, Jeff Fleming and AnnMarie Charland work on the inside of the cake while counselor Kim Byrne works on the inside; Maura Collins, ten, South Main St. and Jennifer Patten, 16, of Boston Road put the detail into their icecream cone; Lisa Allen, 11, Salem St., seven-year-old Matt Gendron, Washington Ave. and Keri Lynch, 11, Brookfield Rd. put the final touches to the sticks of the popsicle; Stephanie Patten, 17, Boston Rd. and Tasha Roberts, 8, River Rd. work on the letters to "Happy B-Day". The other Sand sculptures can be seen in the background; Nine year-old Charles Calvi, Old County Rd. and Anne Murnane, 11, Andover St. add some color to the jelly beans.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — August 1909

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, about 7.30, in the West above the sunset, Venus and Jupiter have been on exhibition side by side. The brilliance of the small star is a singular contrast to the feeble state of the largest of our planets. Youth and old age!

John Clement, of Frye Village, started in the 100 yards and 440 yards dashes open events at the Caledonian games in Boston last Saturday. He ran a good race in the latter event and gained second prize of ten dollars.

Mrs. James Abercrombie, and daughters, Misses Grace and Laurette, of Essex street, spend last Sunday very pleasantly at Revere Beach.

The automobile is here to stay. Most men wish to use it decently and properly. We need to punish the fellow who deliberately makes of himself and his machine a nuisance, and no progress will be made in controlling this new element in the twentieth century living so long as the right kind of prosecution gives way to the wrong kind of persecution. When a trap in an unobstructed place is laid out so that it catches the fellow who travels one sixteenth mile per hour faster than the limit, no end of justice has been served in any way whatsoever.

50 Years Ago — August 1934

A special town meeting will probably be held sometime next month for several different purposes, the most important being the adoption of a zoning plan for

Joan Lefebvre, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lefebvre of Elm street, was chosen "Little Miss Popularity" at the annual baby show held last Friday night at the summer playground. The popularity applause accorded Joan by the children gave her first place in her class and then gave her the title on which Andover's babies feast covetous eyes every summer. She was entered by her older sister, Claire.

Miss Marion Macdonald of Gloucester was elected teacher in the business department of Punchard high school at a special school committee meeting Wednesday night. At a special meeting in July the committee elected Miss Rachel Johnson of Pigeon Cove, but Miss Johnson declined the position, having secured one with higher salary in Winthrop.

Andover, according to information received this week. No formal action has been taken by the selectmen as yet, but it is understood that as soon as the recently organized planning board can formulate its plan, the meeting will be called.

Two new tennis champions, Richard Simmers of Shawsheen village and James Garvey of Lawrence, were crowned at the end of the third annual juvenile tennis tournament at the Balmoral courts Wednesday afternoon. Garvey won the senior championship, in which last year's winner, Frank O'Brien, Jr., did not participate as he is summering in Canada.

25 Years Ago — August 1959

Voters may be asked at town meeting next March to adopt a minimum wage for police officers that is substantially higher than the salaries now paid by the town. This became apparent, following passing of a state law that allows communities to adopt a minimum wage for policemen. The present maximum pay for police officers is $4,510 — just less than $1,000 under the wage of $5,500 set by the recently signed law.

Main st. parking meters may be changed back to "penny" meters, following a discussion by the Selectmen Monday night. The step came after a review of the income from meters during the past five years, and the expenditures for maintenance and collections. The possibility that meters in the municipal parking area may also be converted to the use of pennies loomed, after Selectman William Stewart commented that at least 37 parking spaces are going to waste there every day.

The possibility of a special town meeting on zoning loomed this week, following two requests for changes in the by-laws. A spectacular plan for a three-building sports center on North Main st. on the site of the former Golden Farm, was presented to the Board of Selectmen Monday night and later in the evening, the Massachusetts Mutual Insurance Co. expressed an interest in a building situated on Lowell st., at the junction of Route 93. This area also would require re-zoning.

10 Years Ago — August 1974

Due to the heavy increase in the number of complaints regarding the conduct of youths in the Park across from Memorial Auditorium, a special police patrol of the area has been instituted this week. Town Manager J. Maynard Austin said the assignment of a police officer to the area resulted from the "complaints which have sky-rocketed," and in essence claiming that the group of about 30 to 35 youths are exercising a takeover of the bandstand and park.

Andover's 1974 tax rate was officially established Wednesday afternoon at $53, a reduction of $1 over the last year's levy. Assessor William H. Russell went to the division of corporation and taxation at the State house Wednesday where the new rate was approved. The new rate will reflect $30.03 in school costs and $22.97 in general government expenses.

It may have taken longer than expected to get the new water treatment plant in operation here, but it soon may be proving its worth. With continued drought conditions, no appreciable rainfall in sight and Haggetts pond dropping, a decision may have to be made within the week to supplement the Andover water supply. The treatment plant was built to take water from the Merrimack, treat and place it in Haggetts for storage.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Janet D. Lake

A second chance for a clambake! Another trip to Portland, Maine, has been arranged for August 30. Details are the same for the group going on August 28—$28, a boat trip to Peak's Island for lobster, steak or chicken, plus all the usual corn on the cob, steamers, strawberry shortcake, etc., a guided bus tour of restored Portland, plus the lovely ride to and from the city. But you must sign up right away at the senior center. You know it will be fun.

And while we're talking about good things to eat, why not plan to attend Arabian Night at the center Saturday from 5:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. and all for $6. The evening will feature food of the Pharaohs (catered by Bishops) plus music of the Nile, authentic decorations, a King Tut exhibit, plus other surprises. Tickets are on sale now at the center.

And the following Wednesday, Aug. 29, there will be a potluck luncheon at the center. Music and dancing will follow. But, you must let the staff know what you plan to bring—a salad, a casserole or dessert. The staff stands ready to help you with suggestions and if you are a non-cook, you may attend anyway upon payment of $3, but even the non-cooks need to call and let them know they plan to attend.

The hot lunch program ends tomorrow, Friday, and will resume September 6.

Next Monday's movie is "Around the World in Eighty Days." It begins at 1 p.m. and again, well-behaved grandchildren will be welcomed. It is free.

You are urged to watch for the Community Services Department bulletin and the next Elder Affairs Newsletter for information on the fall classes. They will both be out shortly.

The next Council on Aging meeting is scheduled for August 21 at 9:30 a.m. and all are welcome to attend.

Plans are underway for a bus trip to the Eastern States Exposition on Sept. 19 with the cost of $11 covering transportation and admission to the fair. Anything else you will pay for as you choose. But, again, you need to sign up now.

Thursday, Oct. 25, is the date for a trip to Foxboro and Dimitri's Red Snapper Restaurant for lunch and entertainment by Dennis Day, that delightful tenor and wit of the Jack Benny days. Lunch will be a baked chicken dinner, and the cost for the whole day is $20. It is not too early to sign up now. Saturday, Sept. 8, the Council on Aging is sponsoring a rummage sale and flea market, proceeds to be used for center activities. You are invited to contribute items for sale.

Kitchen Design

David A. Clement, designer

Kitchens are opening up and including adjacent areas in a revival of the old "keeping room." Remember that cozy spot in a house where the whole family assembled to talk, create a project or just relax? Of course, family dining, even entertaining, remains a function of this new-found or revived social area. To create a family kitchen, the necessary space must be there or acquired. If the kitchen is cramped, look to surrounding areas, such as a porch, utility room or pantry for extra space. You may even decide that a little-used formal dining room would be more functional as a family activity area. If so, visualize the entire area as one large room without dividing walls.

Because of the versatility your kitchen has the items you have in your kitchen should be equally diverse. Come to WINDSOR KITCHENS at 1181 Boston Rd. Ward Hill, and let our staff show you how remodeling your kitchen with up-to-date cabinets will add convenience, space and beauty to your life. If you've expanded your kitchen area to your family room or dining room we also have terrific cabinets to give you a coordinated look. See us Mon-Thurs 9-5:30; Fri. til 8; Sat. til 2 & by appt. for factory of custom cabinets. Tel. 372-3444

Bay State Medal Winners

For Seven Andover athletes the Olympic spirit was stronger for them right here in Massachusetts as they came home gold medal winners from the Bay State Games. The Bay State Games are Massachusetts' own state-wide Olympic-style sports festival, showcasing amateur athletes in fourteen different sports. The teams were made up of six regions: Northeast, Southeast, Metropolitan, Coastal, Northwest and Southwest that competed against one another for the medals between July 12-15 in Boston. Six of the teenage athletes were on the Northeast gold medal winning Soccer team and one on the Northeast gold medal winning Basketball team. Congratulations to these outstanding high school stars of Andover who could very well be our next Olympians. Photos clockwise upper left: Soccer players display their medals; Caroline Pool, 15, of Salem St. a Lower at Phillips Academy, Katharine Kimball, 16, of Lowell St. a Senior at Brooks School, Vered Pomerantz, 15, of Bateson Drive, a Lower at Phillips Academy and Devera Weisman, 16, of Pilgrim Drive, a Senior at Andover High School; Two more medal winners, Erin Sheehan, 17, of Sevilla Road, a Senior at Brooks School and Joanne Martin, 17, of LoveJoy Road, a Senior at Andover High School; Winning the gold on the basketball team was Shawna McCloskey, 17, a Senior at Andover High School.

Babe Ruth All-Stars Post Six Tournament Victories

By Rick Harrison

The Andover Blue and Gold Babe Ruth All-Stars came through a busy nine-game week with six victories in tournament action at Waltham, Chelmsford and Winthrop, hiking their overall post-regular season record to 10-4 (including two non-tourney wins).

The Blue-Gold 14-15 year old Stars posted a 2-1 ledger in the first annual Chelmsford Elks Invitational Baseball Tournament at the Varney and McCarthy Junior High fields, finishing second in their division and third overall in the tourney.

Andover's championship hopes were dashed early in this one, the locals dropping a 10-7 decision to Dracut in a darkness-shortened 5½ inning contest at Varney.

Blue-Gold came back to register impressive triumphs over Lynn, 5-1, and Lowell Shedd, 9-2, to complete the round-robin portion of the tourney and tie Dracut for the best record in the A Division. However, under the tiebreaker rules, Dracut advanced to the title round because it defeated Andover in head-to-head competition.

Outstanding all-around efforts for the 14-15's in the Chelmsford tourney were contributed by Rick Lafond, Earl Abdoo and Bill Blackwell. The Blue-Gold 14's stayed alive in the Waltham and Winthrop Invitational Tournaments, both double-elimination, by playing some sharp defense while receiving strong pitching performances from righthanders Steve Surette, Glenn Allard and Tom Torrey.

The Waltham record improved to 3-1 with victories over tough West Roxbury, 6-3, and Belmont at McKenna Field, while the Winthrop record stood at 1-1 following a heartbreaking 4-3 loss to East Boston and a lopsided 16-2 romp over host team Winthrop Gold at Winthrop High.

The Blue-Gold 13's stood 2-1 at Waltham through last weekend's play, having ripped Melrose 16-8 before dropping a 12-1 decision to undefeated (3-0) Braintree.

The 13-year-old crew returned to Waltham action last Tuesday night, battling either West Roxbury or Melrose, while the 14's are scheduled to play either Revere or Chelsea in the Winthrop tourney tomorrow (Friday) evening at 5:30 p.m.

The 14-15 team was slated to battle the North Andover Pony League All-Star in a two-game home-and-home series this week, and on Sunday the Blue-Gold squad tentatively will travel to Cape Cod for a doubleheader against Harwich.

Dracut, 10-7

Dracut surprised the Andover 14-15 contingent by taking advantage of nine walks and three costly errors to chalk up its 10-7 decision at Varney Field. Blue-Gold hurlers Larry Aiello and reliever Rick Lafond, neither of whom had pitched for some time, both experienced control problems as seven of the 10 Dracut runs were scored by batters receiving free passes.

The locals outthit Dracut, 10-6, belting three triples and a pair of doubles. Andover inched ahead 1-0 in the top of the first on a long two-out double by Earl Abdoo and a mammoth triple by Lafond, but Dracut used five walks and one single to bounce back with four in the home half.

Bill Blackwell drilled a 400-foot, two-out triple to rightfield in the second, but was left stranded, while Dracut respond-

Banking

Bankers predict the day isn't far off when EFT—electronic funds transfer—will make checkbooks all but obsolete, give you 24-hour access to your financial assets (even the equity in your home) and virtually eliminate conventional bank card fraud.

EFT's best known form is the automated teller. Some 40,000 automated tellers let U.S. consumers withdraw cash from savings or checking accounts, using an electronic "check" called a debit card.

Watson Named Recipient Of Alumni Council Award

The Bowdoin College alumni council has named Sidney J. Watson, director of athletics and former varsity men's hockey coach, the 22nd recipient of its Award for Faculty and Staff.

David F. Huntington, secretary-treasurer of the council and the director of alumni relations, said Watson will receive the award at Bowdoin's Homecoming luncheon September 22.

The award, established in 1963, is presented annually for outstanding "service and devotion to Bowdoin, recognizing that the college in a larger sense includes both students and alumni." The award carries with it a special Bowdoin clock and a citation.

A member of the Bowdoin staff since 1959, Watson served as varsity men's hockey coach until 1983 and was named director of athletics in 1981. Under his direction, Polar Bear men's hockey teams won 323 games, lost 210 and tied 11. In Division II competition, his teams posted a 238-92-8 mark and won ECAC Division II championships in 1971, 1975, 1976 and 1978.

A three-time recipient of the National College Division Coach of the Year award (1970, 1971 and 1978), Watson was selected in 1980 to coach the east squad in the first east-west hockey all-star game and was honored as the recipient of the prestigious 1983 Sheaffer Pen Award by New England hockey writers for "outstanding contribution to New England hockey."

He is a former president of the American College Hockey Coaches Association and has also served as a member of the NCAA Ice Hockey Rules and Tournament Committee.

Under his guidance as director of athletics, participation in intramural athletics and the physical education program have increased with particular emphasis being placed on lifetime sports such as swimming, racquets and running.

Watson has also served the college in several other capacities over the years. He has served as assistant to the director of athletics, director of the Dayton Arena, varsity golf coach, assistant varsity football coach, varsity and freshman lacrosse coach, physical education instructor and director of summer swimming programs. In 1971 Watson founded The Clinic, a six-week summer hockey school which continues to enjoy a reputation as one of the best such programs in the east.

A native of Andover, Watson graduated in 1956 from Northeastern University after an outstanding football and hockey career. He still holds several football-rushing records at Northeastern where sports writers dubbed him "Century Sid" for his ability to gain at least 100 yards in every game he played.

Watson played halfback for the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Washington Redskins of the National Football League from 1956-59.

In 1975 he was inducted into Northeastern's Athletic Hall of Fame and was nominated as a "Boston Sports Legend" in 1980.

The Bowdoin Fathers Association presented him with a Distinguished Service certificate in 1970 and he received a special citation from the Bowdoin Alumni Council. The college honored him with a certificate of appreciation for outstanding service in 1971. A new nautilus room in Bowdoin's Sargent gymnasium was dedicated to Watson this spring.

Watson is married to the former Henrietta Halloran of Concord. They have five children: Nancy, John, Susan, Michael and Christopher, a member of Bowdoin's class of 1988.

ed with a run in the bottom of the stanza on Greg Pinard's RBI single.

Mike Lane tripled and scored when Larry Aiello's infield grounder was misplayed in the fourth, and Aiello later came home on an infield out to make it 5-3.

Three walks, two errors and run-scoring singles by George Pare and John L'Hussier keyed a five-run Dracut fourth, hiking the count to 10-3. Abdo beat out an infield hit, took third on Lafond's double and scored on a passed ball in the fifth.

In the sixth, with darkness setting in, Blue-Gold trimmed the deficit to 10-7 before running out of time and daylight. Chris Concerni walked, Kevin Dolan singled, Blackwell singled, a wild pitch plated Concerni, and Abdo rifled a two-run single to leftfield before the side was retired on a game-ending strikeout.

Abdo and Lafond both went 3-for-4. Blackwell was 2-for-4.

Blue-Gold, 5-1

Bill Blackwell tossed a crisp three-hitter, striking out seven and walking two, as Blue-Gold bounced back to defeat Lynn 5-1 at Varney Field. Andover threatened in the first when Blackwell slapped a leadoff single to leftfield and Abdo walked, but Rick Lafond lined out to deep left and Glenn Allard skied to leftfield to end the scoring bid.

The winners moved in front 1-0 in the third, however, as Blackwell walked, Steve Surette walked, Abdo laid down a sacrifice bunt, and Lafond lofted a long sacrifice fly to leftfield. Allard then walked before the mini-rally was extinguished.

Blue-Gold added two runs in the fourth when Larry Aiello singled, Blackwell walked and Chris Concerni hammered a long pinch-hit, two-run double to centerfield.

Lynn collected its lone run, unearned, in the fifth on a double and a throwing error.

Andover retaliated with a run in the bottom of the fifth as Lafond singled to centerfield, stole second, took third on Mark Tucker's infield hit and raced across on Dave Curtis' infield hit.

The victors added another insurance run in the sixth, Blackwell safe on an error and eventually trotting home on Abdo's sacrifice fly.

Blackwell, who retired 12 of the last 13 batters he faced, escaped a monumental jam in the fourth. Lynn loaded the bases with no one out on a pair of singles and a fielder's choice, but Blackwell proceeded to strike out the next three hitters.

Abdo played a superb defensive game at catcher, gunning down three straight would-be Lynn base stealers, and Steve Surette handled six changes flawlessly at shortstop.

Blue-Gold, 9-2

Righthander Earl Abdo fashioned a route-going four-hitter, walking just one and setting down the last nine batters.

Volunteers Needed

Elder Services at Choate-Symes Hospitals, Inc. is seeking a volunteer five to eight hours a week.

Main duties will be to assist Maxine Lyons, the elder services coordinator, in a variety of elder services functions, including a monthly Sunday brunch program at the Symmes Hospital Division. Valuable experience can be gained by attending meetings of geriatric services providers in the community.

For more information, contact Lyons or Mrs. Eleanor Matthews, director of volunteer services, at Symmes.

A billiard player may walk from one to three miles during a close match.

Hayfever Tips

Avoid outdoor activities as much as possible. Get someone else to cut your grass or wear a dust mask if you must cut your own grass. Pass up hiking and camping trips.

If you hang up pillows or bed linens outside to "freshen-up," they will trap the pollen and bring it inside to trouble you at night; it is better to use an inside dryer.

Move the indoor plants and animals outside and rid the home of mildew.

Tilt the head of the bed upwards a few inches with a brick or two under the head of the bed. You will sleep more comfortably with less of a stuffy nose.

Moriarty To Start At Northeastern

Brien Moriarty of Andover will be thrust into a starting role this season when the Northeastern University football team opens its 1984 campaign at Delaware State College's Alumni Field September 15.

Moriarty has the physical attributes to become an exceptional defender against the pass and run.

He saw some action when injuries took their toll on the Husky defensive backfield. Playing either corner or safety, Moriarty made 12 unassisted tackles in 1983 and held his ground against some of Division 1-AA's better receivers.

A highlight against A.I.C. was Moriarty's game-saving tackle which added to Northeastern's 6-4-1 mark. Other notable wins came over C.W. Post, Springfield and Connecticut.

Moriarty is a 1983 graduate of Andover High School where he starred at both quarterback and defensive back for the Warriors. He was a two-time All-Merrimack Valley League selection.

Moriarty is a Business Administration major and will graduate in 1988.

High School Practices To Begin

Andover High School athletic teams will begin practice Monday, Aug. 27. Athletes should watch the newspaper for practice times or contact their individual coaches. Junior high school teams will start practice after the beginning of school.

In the second Chris Concerni spanked a two-out single, stole second and raced home on an error to make it 3-0, while a five-run Andover third featured a single by Lafond, single by Mike Lane, run-scoring single by Dave Curtis, two-run double by Larry Aiello and two-run single by Bill Blackwell. Lowell collected its only two runs, and three of its four safeties, in the bottom of the third with John Martini's RBI double the key stroke. The final Blue-Gold tally came in the fifth when Aiello singled and scored on Derry's two-out single.

Steve Surette added a pinch-hit single for Andover, while defensive standouts were Dave Curtis in rightfield (two diving catches), Larry Aiello in the left (one diving catch), Rick Lafond at catcher, Chris Concerni at third base (five assists) and Mike Lane at first base.

East Boston, 4-3

A solid pitching performance by hard-luck lefthander Mike Lane went unrewarded as East Boston rallied from a 3-0 deficit to score once in the bottom of the sixth and three times in the seventh for the victory over the Blue-Gold 14's in Winthrop Tournament opening round play at Winthrop High.

Basically the same East Boston squad had battled to the State Little League (13-year-old division) Tournament championship last summer. Lane worked the first six innings, tossing one-hit ball for five frames and leaving in the seventh after permitting just three safeties. Mike walked five, including the first two batters in the seventh, and whiffed four.

Blue-Gold did all its damage in the first, jumping to a 3-0 lead as Steve Surette lashed a one-out double, Glenn Allard rifled an RBI single, Lane walked, Mark Tucker slapped an RBI single to left field, and Kevin Dolan plated Lane with a sacrifice fly.

Two-out singles by Chris Concerni and Surette gave Andover a second-inning threat, but Allard lined out to centerfield.

Blue-Gold managed just one hit, a seventh-inning single by Surette, and three base runners the rest of the way against East Boston lefthander Kevin Attardo.

Lane lost the shutout in the sixth on a two-out infield single by Jay Leone, and a long RBI triple to rightfield by Joe DeMarco whose line drive eluded the diving Tom Tormey.

In the fateful seventh Lane walked the leadoff batter, and went 2-0 on the next hitter before he was lifted in favor of Todd Rembis. Rembis walked the second batter and, after getting the first out on an infield squibber, he issued another free pass to load the bases. A passed ball allowed East Boston to cut the gap to 3-2, and another walk re-loaded the bases with one down.

Bob Conte slipped a game-tying single through the drawn-in Blue-Gold infield but then Rembis retired Leone on an infield pop for the second out.

East Boston won it as DeMarco laced a solid line drive single to leftfield the ball skipping past Mike Lane who made a desperation dive. Andover's infield turned in a spectacular defensive performance, highlighted by a 5-4-3 double play from Chris Concemi to Scott Wallace to Mark Tucker. Steve Surette made several other fine plays at shortstop.

Blue-Gold, 16-2

The Blue-Gold 14's came back with a vengeance last Sunday morning at Winthrop High, drilling Winthrop Gold 16-2 to eliminate that club from the tournament, (4-3 opening loss to Chelsea).

Righthander Tom Tormey went the distance for Andover, scattering seven hits while walking seven and fanning three.

The locals erupted for five runs in the top of the first, then collected eight more in the third, one in the fourth and two in the seventh. Winthrop Gold, which stranded 12 runners, notched single runs in the second and fourth frames.

The balanced 13-hit Andover assault was led by Chris Concemi, Glenn Allard and Tormey, each of whom contributed two safeties and two RBIs. Concemi also scored three runs.

Scott Wallace reached base five straight times, hammering in an RBI double, walking on three occasions and being hit by a pitch. Steve Surette added an RBI single and scored three runs, Todd Rembis had two singles, walked twice and scored two runs, Mike Lane lashed a run-scoring single, Bill O'Brien singled and Glenn Farnham delivered a single.

The Blue-Gold 14's turned their second Winthrop tourney doubleplay, this one from shortstop Surette to second baseman Wallace to first baseman Lane. Glenn Allard played well at shortstop, Farnham made a nice catch in rightfield. O'Brien was solid at catcher and Mike Lane contributed a diving grab after switching to centerfield midway through the contest.

The talented Andover 14's spotted the Parkway All-Stars of West Roxbury a quick 2-0 lead, then battled from behind for the 6-3 triumph to oust that club from the Waltham Tournament.

Righthander Steve Surette pitched a gritty game for the Blue-Gold, yielding just five hits, whiffing five and walking only two. Surette became stronger as the game progressed, retiring the last 13 batters he faced.

Andover loaded the bases in the bottom of the first, after falling behind 2-0, as Chris Concemi walked and one-out singles were spanked by Glenn Allard (3-for-4) and Mike Lane. West Roxbury pitcher Dave Russell escaped the jam, however, on two infield grounders.

Blue-Gold pulled even with a pair in the second stanza as Todd Rembis doubled, Bill O'Brien singled, Tom Tormey slapped an RBI single to right-centerfield and Scott Wallace laced a run-producing basehit.

West Roxbury leadoff batter Jim Grehan hammered a solo homerun over the leftfield fence to open the third, as Parkway regained the lead (3-2), but Andover won it with a three-run uprising in the fourth. Concemi launched the pivotal rally with a two-out single, Wallace singled, Allard clouted a two-run double and the final marker came across on an error.

The victors added an unearned insurance run in the bottom of the sixth, Wallace reaching on an infield error, taking third on Glenn Allard's second.

Once again the defense was crisp, Surette starting a doubleplay on a muffed bunt, Wallace making two fine catches at second on pop-ups, and rightfielder Tom Tormey gunning down a parkway runner at second base as he tried to stretch an off-the-fence single into a double.

16-8 triumph over Melrose at McKenna Field.

Righthander Pat Breen, in relief of starter Tom Murray, chalked up the pitching victory for Blue-Gold. Murray was forced to leave in the third after developing a pain in his right side.

Andover never trailed after ringing up five runs in the second stanza, the winners adding four in the fourth, one in the fifth and six in the sixth.

Nine different players collected hits, Matt Pothier and Murray leading the way with three apiece. Pothier also scored three runs and drove home two while Murray added one ribbie.

Andy Shea rapped two hits, scored two runs and drive home a pair. Glenn Farnham contributed two hits and two runs scored, and long doubles were drilled by DH Chris McAnnally and John Russell.

Pat Breen had one hit and three RBI, Steve Howes a run-scoring single and two runs scored, Mark Russell a basehit and Joe Lyons two runs scored. Melrose managed just four singles against Murray and Breen, who combined for eight defensive strikeouts, but 11 walks kept things interesting.

Defensive standouts for Blue-Gold were Murray at third base late in the contest, Pothier at second and Shea behind the plate.

Braintree: 12-1

Blue-Gold was protecting a slender 1-0 lead through three innings in this battle of undefeated winner's bracket teams, but Braintree poured across nine runs in the fourth before adding one in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Andover had its chances to blow the same open early, but stranded eight runners in the first three frames.

In the first stanza Steve Howes ripped a leadoff single to leftfield and Andy Shea was hit by a pitch, but the next two batters went down meekly. In the second Glenn Farnham slapped a one-out single, Matt Pothier walked and Sean Phillips walked to load the bases. A strikeout and routine infield grounder to third killed this threat.

In the Blue-Gold third Pat Breen belted a double to leftfield and scored the lone Andover run on an error.

Consecutive singles by Tom Murray and Mark Russell loaded the bases once again, but a strikeout, forceout at home and strikeout squashed the serious threat and added to the locals' frustration.

The only Blue-Gold hits thereafter were singles by Shea (fifth inning) and Farnham (sixth), Braintree hurler Corey Pollera becoming tougher as the game progressed.

Braintree chased Blue-Gold southpaw starter Sean Phillips with Murray, Farnham and Mark Russell all working in relief. Amazingly both teams finished with seven hits, but once again walks were a killer as Andover issued 10 to Braintree's four. The Blue-Gold pitchers also combined for 11 strikeouts.

Farnham went 2-for-3 to pace the Andover offense.

Voter Registration

Town residents have less than a week to register to vote in the Sept. 18 presidential primary election. Voter registration hours will be extended by Town Clerk Elden Salter on two days to give last-minute voters a chance to register.

On Saturday, Aug. 18, from noon to 8 p.m., Andover residents may register at Salter's office, in the Town Building, Bartlet Street. And the clerk's office will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 21, the last day to register to vote.

Salter told THE TOWNSMAN that those registering to vote must bring proof of residency along with them. He said a utility bill, mortgage papers or driver's license would suffice for proof of residency.

Andover voters will be voting in two locations for both the presidential primary and the Nov. 6 election. In an effort to make the voting easier and eliminate long lines and traffic tie-ups residents living in precincts one, three and eight will vote at the Senior Citizen's Center, in the Town Building, using the Whittier Street entrance.

Voters in precincts two, four, five, six and seven will vote at the Dunh Gymnasium at Andover High School, as usual. Salter said he would send postcards to all voters informing them of their voting places.

Hawk Ridge

land McGarry wants to develop was wet. He also said waste water from the proposed homes will eventually end up in the Shawsheen River, which he fears will suffer from the subdivision.

"I don't understand why the town of Andover is so anxious to develop all the lots in town whether they are swampy or not," said Brown. "The only lots available now are junk lots. I consider these junk lots."

Bradshaw told Brown that strict state conservation laws would protect the wet areas and stressed that her board was working to insure development in town was done properly.

"The Planning Board is here to be the mediator between no construction and the rights of individuals to develop their property," she said.

Other residents warned that streams near their property would run longer into the year when water was forced off the development. Some said they worried that blasting ledge on the 14-plus acre site may effect their homes and foundations. Jeton told them that they must be notified of any blasting that would take place. And Zeloga said site workers testing for septic systems in the area, for which deep holes must be dug, hadn't hit any ledge.

The planners must approve or disapprove the preliminary Hawk Ridge plan, which Bradshaw said would be discussed again at another meeting, by Sept. 24.

After the planning decision the next step for developers will be to present a more detailed plan, called a definitive plan, which would outline approximately where septic systems and homes will be placed on the lots. In addition the developers still have to discuss with the planners if any of the lots will be filled in and whether the hilly knolls on the site will be cut down.

Valle's

"improvements" to be completed at Valle's before recommending the license transfer. Board of Health inspectors recommended approval of the transfer after inspecting the restaurant Monday, he said.

Presented with menus, brochures and photographs of the Montreal restaurant, the selectmen had only one question for the new owners. Selectman Norma Gammon asked whether Seltzer planned to erect a large neon sign — much like the Hilltop's sign in Saugus — at the West Andover restaurant.

Seltzer replied that he planned to put up a sign that would meet the town's by-law requirements — a relief to Gammon, who said Le Biftheque's Montreal sign reminded her just a little too much of Route 1.

Also on Monday, the board unanimously approved a transfer of a retail package goods all-alcoholic beverage license from McCracken's Liquors and Wines, Inc., at 4 Poor St., to Richard Gagnon of 67 Whittier St.

Atty. Richard Asoian, representing Gagnon, told the board Gagnon intends to own and manage the liquor store at its existing Shawsheen Village location. Asoian attributed license violations at the store in recent years to the fact that the owners have not worked at the store — and said that will change when Gagnon takes over.

Gagnon said he planned to change the name of the store, "among other things." He has a purchase and sale agreement for the store, contingent on the selectmen's approval of the license transfer, Asoian said.

Nighthawk

The Massachusetts Audubon Society is conducting a Nighthawk Migration Watch from August 20-September 7. Each fall, nighthawks migrate through New England on their way to wintering grounds in South America.

Nighthawks are medium-sized birds about the size of robins. They are blackish-brown, have a white throat and a bold white slash near the tip of their long, slender wings. They bound and swoop erratically, frequently uttering their distinctive call, a nasal "peent."

Park-Hegarty Porsche Audi, Inc. — Excellence is Always Expected

The time to buy a 1984 Porsche or Audi is now! And Park-Hegarty Porsche Audi, Inc., 222 Lowell St. in Lawrence is the place to go. They're giving professionalism and integrity a new place in the automotive industry.

Owner Arthur Park attributes their success to the fact that each department — Sales, Service, Parts, Body Shop and Administration — is as important as all the rest.

The entire staff at Park-Hegarty works together like a family to make all aspects of the dealership successful. And, in fact, some of the staff is family. Both of the owner's sons are on the staff: Doug just joined the sales staff where there's no high pressure sales and Arthur Jr. is in the Administration Dept.

They not only sell terrific cars, they make them better. No one really wants to own a car that 20,000 other people in New England have. That's why you choose a Porsche or Audi. And that's why you go to Park-Hegarty. Their Parts and Accessories Dept. is the largest accessory supplier in New England. You can purchase such items as Bosch fog lights, Blaupunkt radios, custom mud flaps, real sheepskin seat covers, wooden steering wheels and more to customize your car to your personality and make it unique.

In addition, there's even personal boutique items available such as Porsche gold pens, designer Porsche sunglasses, Porsche sweaters and caps and more. They make great gifts for yourself or for a Porsche lover.

Park-Hegarty follows up their sales efforts with remarkable support services. Right now their service department is expanding to serve you better and quicker. There's no better place to get your car serviced than a dealership where they handle those types of cars every day. At Park-Hegarty you get top quality, dependable, prompt repair service.

Dick Gregoire, manager of the Body Shop, epitomizes Park-Hegarty's concern for its customers and their cars. He fusses over your car until it's perfect. And it doesn't matter if you didn't buy your car there, you still receive the same professional, expert, friendly service.

Trust your car to the recognized professionals and visit Park-Hegarty for auto repairs, body work or your next car. Once you're a customer, you'll stay a customer. Tel. 686-9743.

Shopping Center

This week the Richmonds tried another route and asked the Planning Board to discuss their plans to put apartments on the land, which the board did at their Tuesday night meeting. The Richmonds were not present at the meeting where the planners decided they needed a more detailed site plan before deciding what would be the best use of the Essex Street land.

The planners did agree that more multi-family housing was needed in town but weren't ready to say they approved of the Richmond plan.

"The Board of Appeals may have hit the nail on the head when they said 24 new units was really stretching the property," said planning chair Margaret Bradshaw on Tuesday evening. "There would be no room for landscaping."

There are now eight townhouse apartments on the Essex Street land, said Donald Richmond in a telephone conversation with THE TOWNSMAN. He said that if he could not put up apartments on the land he would tear those buildings down and build a shopping center.

He added that because it appears there will not be a Special Town Meeting this fall, where he could try and change the zoning of the land to allow residential construction, he wasn't sure whether he would wait until next spring's Town Meeting to attempt a zoning change.

"I am in the apartment business and I recognize there is a tremendous need for apartments in town," Richmond said. "But they (the Planning Board) may not permit as many apartments as I would need to make this thing feasible. The land is too valuable to put too few apartments there."

Residents in a small village in Scotland schedule their television viewing according to the tides. At low tide, the nearby mud flats absorb the broadcast "waves."

Cucumbers

The harvest of fresh, summertime vegetables is in full swing across the state and one of the most popular is the native cucumber. Local grown cukes have that crisp, delicious flavor just not found in the waxed, winter-grown types.

American varieties of cucumbers are composed of three classes based on their use. The most familiar is the field grown slicing or table variety. They reach maturity at a fairly large size and retain their green color over a long period of time. The second variety is the pickling variety, much smaller in size than the slicing variety.

Cited For Rescue Effort

The entire lifeguard staff at Pomp's Pond will be cited for "exceptional conduct" after they rescued a drowning man on Sunday, July 22.

According to Community Services Director Joan Pearson, the entire staff helped rescue and resuscitate the unidentified man, who had stopped breathing and whose heart was not beating after he was pulled from the pond.

Michael Maher and Richard Conron revived the man by performing CPR, with the assistance of Victoria Robb. They were aided by the rest of the rescue staff, Pearson wrote in a letter to the selectmen, including Margery Safran, Carolyn Bishop and Patrick Robb.

Pearson noted in her letter that a number of residents offered their assistance to the staff that day as well.

The selectmen unanimously agreed with Pearson's recommendation that each lifeguard should receive a citation for what Selectman Charles Wesson call "outstanding effort."

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony added that the man who came close to drowning is fully recovered. He noted that the Pomp's Pond staff has long had "a very good safety record."

through the area while firefighters worked.

Fighting broke out again around 9:30 p.m. Thursday, police said, when gunshots began to ring through the neighborhood. Witnesses said firebombs, rocks and bottles were thrown at Lawrence police before assistance arrived — hundreds of police officers from surrounding towns, including members of the tactical force — approximately one hour after the renewed fighting began.

Four were injured Thursday night, 13 were arrested and six were placed in protective custody. The rioting ended around midnight.

Calm was restored when city officials placed an 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew on the Oxford Street area for the next three nights, although police made 27 arrests Friday night, two arrests Saturday night and three Sunday night, most for curfew violations. Police have made a number of arrests since the curfew was lifted Monday night, but the area has remained quiet.

Archbishop Bernard F. Law celebrated a Mass before 1,500 people at St. Mary Church Sunday morning, in an effort to ease tensions and encourage unity in the troubled neighborhood.

Bounded by Oxford, Haverhill, May and Lowell streets, the neighborhood is located next to the Merrimack Courts Housing project and just two blocks north of Essex Street, Lawrence's downtown business district.

A neighborhood once composed largely of French-Canadians, it is now about 50 percent Hispanic, according to recent census reports. Residents and city officials alike have attributed last week's rioting to antagonism and misunderstanding among the area's disparate residents.

CONDO ASSOCIATION BYLAWS

When you buy a condominium, you will have to abide by the rules of the association. These rules will be spelled out in a document called Association Bylaws.

In effect, it sets out the rules for your condo association internal government. It will specify how many owners are needed to form a quorum and conduct business, the use of proxies, the duties and powers of the officers and directors.

Specific clauses will authorize the board to establish an operating budget, including reserves for general operations, replacement of commonly owned facilities and maintenance of common areas. Professional management may also be authorized.

Changes in the declaration may require approval of all owners, but bylaws can generally be amended by a vote of 75% or even less.

Often, the success of owning a condominium lays in the ability and wisdom of the condominium governing officers. Read condominium bylaws carefully as well as checking out the track record of the condo association.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 5 PUNCHARD AVE., ANDOVER. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

SELLING YOUR HOUSE

By Lou Patracone

DO IT YOURSELF?

Are you a do-it-yourselfer? Are you the home handyman who saves by mowing your own lawn and painting your house?

Many do-it-yourself jobs get botched, but sometimes it doesn't matter. If the paint job isn't right, someone can paint over it. Time and effort can restore a lawn. And, you can always call a plumber to fix the sink which drips no matter what you do.

Little do-it-yourself jobs are one thing. But the smart homeowner knows when a project is too big to tackle.

One of the biggest is selling the property. This is a time when mistakes can be crucial. If the transaction doesn't turn out well, there's a lot to lose. Setting a price, writing advertising that sells, showing a house to its best advantage, and finding the right buyer call for professional expertise.

That's what you get when you list your property with —

THE RESULTS PEOPLE.

State Funds For Library's Use

New state aid totalling $264,000, with its use unrestricted, sounded too good to be true to the town manager last week — and it was.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony told the selectmen Monday night that he has yet to see a cherry sheet making that $264,000 increase in Andover's state aid official. However, Mahony said it was his understanding that $155,000 of that money is earmarked for use by Memorial Hall Library, for its computer consortium with neighboring communities.

Last week, State Rep. Sue Tucker said she was not aware of any restrictions on the new aid money. Town Finance and Budget Director Anthony Torrisi said he hoped it could be used to help erase a $160,000 deficit in the fiscal 1985 town budget (attributed largely to snow-fighting costs for the past winter); the town also owes the Cressey-Dockham Co. a $100,000 abatement on its property taxes.

With $155,000 of the new state aid going to the library, less than $100,000 remains to go toward the deficit, the manager noted. But Mahony said he was more than pleased to receive the increased aid, however it may be used: "It's really nice to get," he said.

Andover netted a $58,392 increase in state aid earlier this year, when the state returned $5,690,467 to the town. (State assessments of $987,442 against the town brought the net figure down to $58,392.)

With this month's bonus — the result of a legislative battle to return more money to cities and town, Tucker explained — Andover has garnered a total $322,392 in local aid this year.
